Course Description and Objectives
This course introduces students to the subfield of comparative politics and prepares students for further study. Comparative politics is the systematic study and comparison of world’s political systems. The substance of the subfield includes, but is not limited to, comparative methodology, democratization, political institutions, development and political culture. Throughout this course we will examine factors conducive to socioeconomic and political change, the differences and similarities among political systems across the world. By taking this course, you will be able to 1) compare the world politics with comparative methodological approach; 2) have a general idea of essential themes, basic concepts and important theories in the discipline of comparative politics.
Overall, this course aims to provide you with a sound understanding of the theories and applications of comparative politics.

Attendance and Participation (15%)
Attendance is mandatory and will be taken at every class. However, you are given 3 absences without excuse for the whole semester. Exceeding 4 absences, you must provide acceptable proof for your absence. Otherwise, 5 point will be taken off of your final grade for each exceeded but unexcused absence. 9 times of absence without excuses will lead to the automatic fail in this class (Course Withdrawal: please familiarize yourself with its terms as stated in the undergraduate bulletin). Acceptable proofs for absences include health problems, family emergencies, conference or important school activities etc with the appropriate documentation (you need to provide a documented excuse in writing on the following class meeting day). Your participation grade will be affected by the quantity and quality of engaging discussions, interacting with the instructor and classmates in lectures and group activities.

Student led lectures (15%)
There will be 6 (or more) student led lectures in this class. A group of 5 or 6 students will be led by one lecturer working on a specific topic. The lecturer should be familiar with the topic, introduce it to the class and design relevant activities. The discussants are supposed to raise questions and participate in the activities. While it is the responsibility of these students to lead the lecture, all students are expected to participate. More details will be given in class.

Research Project (35%): including Two Short Analysis Papers (10% each) and One Final Presentation (15%) Students will form groups of 2 members and conduct a collective project to apply what we learn in the course to analyze a real political issue. This assignment will require you to use all of the analytical tools that you will learn over the course of the semester. Each group
(2 students in a group) will turn in Two 4-5 pages (double space, Times New Roman, 12pt font, 1 inch margins) analysis of comparative politics issues. The first paper should be a research proposal including the topic introduction, literature review and your theory derived from the literature. The second paper includes methods, data sources, and research design. The topic must 1) involve two or more countries (however, it could be two or more cities within one country if the topic is interesting) and shall be comparative; propose an empirical research question and answer it with solid evidence, using comparative methods. Finally, your group will develop the analysis papers into one presentation organized in a normal research paper shape with (1) introduction and research question, (2) methods, data, and research design, (3) analysis, and (4) conclusion. More information will be provided in class

Paper Due date will be:
Feb 17th First Paper
Mar 29th Second Paper

Mid-term (15%) and Final Exam (cumulative, 20%) The exams will be based on the reading material, lectures and discussions. Detailed instructions will be announced before the exams. No make-up exams will be administered except under the circumstances of serious illness or death of family member and only with proper documentation. No other excuses will be accepted. Please contact the instructor in advance if you need some special assistance to take the exams.

Extra credits will be offered in various manners: games, reflections, pop-quizzes, etc.

Code of Conduct on Electronic Devices
Use of cell phones, MP3s, and any other hand-held devices while class is in session are not allowed. Laptops are only permitted for note taking. If you plan on using a laptop for note taking, you will have to pledge to the instructor that you will only use the laptop for taking notes and not to surf the web or engage in other activities - surfing the web in class is not permitted. Your final grade will be lowered for the violation of this code.

Disabilities & Health Related Issues
Any student with a disability or a health related issue who needs special class accommodation should make an appointment to speak with me as soon as possible.

Academic Honesty
All students are responsible to inform themselves about the University’s academic honesty policy. This policy known as “A Culture of Honesty” is accessible at http://www.uga.edu/honesty/ahpd/culture_honesty.htm. All academic works must meet the standards contained in “A Culture of Honesty.”
