Office: Candler 329

Office Hours: Wed. & Fri. 3:30-4:45, by appointment.

Course Overview:

This course will focus on U.S. Foreign Policy from the end of World War II through today. The primary objectives are to provide you with the theoretical and analytical tools to understand the processes involved in U.S. foreign policy decision making, to appreciate the consequences of past policies, and most importantly, to enable you to consider various arguments regarding issues of current and future U.S. foreign policy. While you may not readily consider the influence of foreign policy on your everyday lives, the consequences of foreign policy decisions are omnipresent. For instance, we experience the costs of foreign policy decisions in the lives that are lost fighting wars, in the resources used to pay for these wars (at the expense of other priorities, such as education and infrastructure), in the higher costs of imports that are not freely traded, and in the loss of jobs that move to cheaper labor markets abroad. Moreover, given the US's super-power position for the last seventy years, it significantly effects the behaviors of people and states outside the U.S. and shapes international relations.

Throughout the semester we will address the following questions:

- (1) What are the major goals of American foreign policy?
- (2) What are the primary means used to achieve these foreign policy goals?
- (3) What domestic and international actors influence U.S. foreign policy?
- (4) How can the U.S. best achieve its foreign policy objectives in the future?

The course will be divided into three sections. The first part will review the history of U.S. foreign policy during the Cold War and its legacy evident in today's foreign policies. Next we will discuss the roles and interactions of American institutions in influencing foreign policy. The latter part of the course will examine contemporary foreign policy issues. Student-led debates will play an integral role in explaining the history and opposing viewpoints of each side of these issues.

Courses Requirements:

- Readings: You are expected to complete the readings listed on the syllabus prior to coming to class. Should you fail to do the readings it will be evident in your lack of participation during class discussions. On occasion an article relevant to the topic we are covering will be published and I will assign it on short notice. In that case I will post the article to the "ANNOUNCEMENTS" section of the class ELC page. *PLEASE REGISTER FOR NOTIFICATIONS!

There is 1 required text:

John Lewis Gaddis. 2005. The Cold War: A New History. Penguin Press.
ISBN: 978-0143038276

*All other readings can be found on ELC, unless otherwise noted.

* Readings noted “⊕” means I expect you to bring a copy to class

*You are also required to keep up with current events – see below

- Grading:

Midterm Exam	25%
Final Exam	35%
Debate	25% (10% presentation; 15% paper)
Participation	10%
Quiz	5%

Letter grades correspond to the following 0-100 scale:

94-100	A	74-76	C
90-93	A-	70-73	C-
87-89	B+	67-69	D+
84-86	B	64-66	D
80-83	B-	60-63	D-
77-79	C+	00-59	F

- Exams & Quizzes: Lectures and class discussions are intended to supplement, not duplicate, the readings. Exams will draw upon both reading and class materials. Makeup exams will not be given. Be aware that you are expected to take notes on the debates held in class, and you are responsible for information in the readings, even if we have not gone over it in class.
- Participation: I expect that students enrolled in this class have an active interest in American Foreign Policy and will thus take the initiative to ask questions and engage in class discussions. While the initial weeks of class will be lecture-heavy as we cover the Cold War, the remainder of the course will rely on discussions and debates, for which your participation is necessary. Simply showing up to class does not constitute participation. Your participation grade will be evaluated based on your ability to draw upon insights from the readings, the depth of the thoughtfulness of your questions/ comments, and your participation in the Q&A period of the debates.
- Debates: Each of you will lead a class debate on some foreign policy issue in the second half of the course. Students should email me their top three preferences for debate topics by Wednesday, January 17. I will assign debate topics and perspective (affirmative/negative) by Monday, January 22. In most cases, students will be in teams of two representing an affirmative or negative side; each debate will have one additional student to present a background on the debate. Within each team one person will be responsible for presenting the opening and response to challenge; the other will present the challenge and closing. While it is the responsibility of these students to lead the debate, all students are expected to participate. Each student leading a debate will submit an 8 to 10-page paper on their debate topic in class one week before their actual debate. This will enable me to give you feedback before your presentation. Late papers will be penalized 1-point/day from your overall average in the course. Grading rubrics for the paper and debate will be posted on ELC. Additional details are provided at the end of this syllabus and will be discussed in class before the first exam.

- Attendance: I will take attendance every class and expect you to be present. You are permitted three absences without penalty. You can use these however you need to (e.g. illness, sports travel, conferences, interviews, sleep). Each absence beyond these three will result in a 1-point/absence deduction from your final overall average.

Other important information:

- Current Events: Students are REQUIRED to stay up to date on foreign policy events. I suggest that you browse the world news sections of the New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, or the Washington Post on a DAILY BASIS. I encourage you to subscribe to the Council on Foreign Relations (www.cfr.org) for their daily email.
- Technology:
 - Laptops are not welcome in class, unless I instruct you to bring one. Should you need to use a laptop please provide proper documentation from UGA's Office of Disability Services.
 - All cell phones should be shut off or set to silent – NOT VIBRATE – before arriving to class. The use or interruption of these devices during regular class time will result in a reduction of your participation grade, and during test periods will be treated as cheating.
- Communication and Email: I will keep you updated about the course and any changes to the syllabus through the “ANNOUNCEMENTS” board on the class ELC page – *PLEASE REGISTER FOR NOTIFICATIONS!
 - When emailing me please only use your UGA email account and include your course number in the subject line. In most cases I will respond to emails within 24 hours. Importantly, before you email me please check the syllabus and the news page of the ELC site to be sure that your question has not been previously addressed.
 - A note on etiquette: please use appropriate salutations including my name in the opening (NOT Miss/Ms./Mrs. Gallagher!) and your name in the closing. (Hint: you can't go wrong with “Dear Professor Gallagher”).
 - For further guidance see <http://www.wikihow.com/Email-a-Professor>.
- Office Hours – I will be available to meet with students during the office hours listed above, however the only way to guarantee that we will have time to meet is for you to sign up for an appointment using the following link (also posted to the ELC page): <https://docs.google.com/document/d/11V8ETwJbmKJ8ah9eIUtH0YRyf0B7wFSLWYWUS3j4GTc/edit>.
- Academic Dishonesty – As a University of Georgia student, you have agreed to abide by the University's academic honesty policy, “A Culture of Honesty,” and the Student Honor Code. All academic work must meet the standards described in “A Culture of Honesty” found at: <http://www.uga.edu/honesty>. Lack of knowledge of the academic honesty policy is not a reasonable explanation for a violation. Any student caught cheating or plagiarizing will be referred to Judicial Affairs, as required by university policy. The most common issue of academic dishonesty I have come across is plagiarism. To be clear, plagiarism is copying from any source material (direct or paraphrasing of ideas), published or unpublished (this includes Wikipedia!), without giving proper credit. I will post a link to the Chicago Manual of Style citation format on ELC.

- Contested Grades: Students are always welcome to come discuss assignments and their overall performance in class during my office hours. If you find a mathematical error on a graded assignment please let me know immediately. Students wishing to contest a grade must wait 24 hours after their assignment/exam has been returned to make an appointment to see me. During that appointment students should come prepared with (1) their assignment/exam, (2) a written explanation of what the best possible response to the prompt would look like, (3) a written explanation of how their work compares to that best answer, and (4) their class and reading notes. All requests for such meetings must be made within two weeks of the date the assignment/exam was returned.
- Students with Disabilities: UGA is committed to providing equal access to academic programs and university-administered activities and reasonable modifications to students with disabilities. Students in need of special accommodations need to request such services from the Disability Resource Center located at 114 Clark Howell Hall (for more information visit www.drc.uga.edu) and should make an appointment to see me with their appropriate paperwork from DRC within the first two weeks of classes.
- This syllabus is subject to change throughout the semester.

*Final Exam – Wed., May 2 12-3 for 1:25 class

Instructions for Debate Paper and Presentation:

In your debate, you will be responsible for making an argument to the class regarding how the US should pursue some pressing foreign policy issue. Convincing the class of the merits of your position will require you to present persuasive points built on research into the issue. All students will have read supporting materials for the debate and will be prepared to take part in the Q & A following the presentation.

Debate Paper

Each student must submit a paper divided into the following sections (use subheadings):

1. Background. Briefly review the recent history behind the issue being debated and the relevance of this issue to American foreign policy today. This section is most important for establishing the significance and historical context of the issue. (~4 pp.) (note: many students short change the relevance of the issue and focus only on the history – don't make this mistake).
2. Defending Your Position. You should present a well-organized summary of at least three key arguments in defense of the side you will be presenting in the debate. The points should go well beyond those presented in the class readings and should be substantiated with empirical evidence and logical arguments. (~3 pp.)
3. Weaknesses of Your Position. Explain the most significant weaknesses of your position and how you would respond to those critiques. (~2pp)
4. Conclusion. Briefly summarize the most significant arguments in favor of your position and explain whether or not you agree with the arguments of this side. (~1 paragraph)
7. Bibliography or Works Cited. You must use at least 5 academic sources (books; peer-reviewed journals; policy journals) beyond those readings listed on the syllabus.

Formatting: all papers must include a cover page and be double spaced, 12pt font, 1” margins, page numbers in lower right hand corner. You are expected to use the (in-text, parenthetical – aka “Author, Date” not footnotes) Chicago Style citation format (link will be provided on ELC).

Debate

Most students will participate in the debate as part an Affirmative (A) or Negative (N) team. Each team will have a member (A1/N1) who is responsible for presenting the opening arguments for their position (4min), and a member (A2/N2) who is responsible for challenging (3min) the claims of the other side and presenting them with at least 2 questions (the purpose of this time is to challenge the points made by the opposing time –not to introduce new arguments in favor of your position). After both sides have had the opportunity to challenge and question the other,

A1/N1 will be given the opportunity to answer the questions presented by the opposing side (2min). Finally A2/N2 will present closing arguments (3 min). *note: team members will decide which role they will play.

An additional student will be responsible for providing an 8-minute background on the recent history of the issue prior to the start of the debate. The background presenter must introduce the debate with a presentation using PowerPoint or Prezi (debaters may not use such programs). This person will submit a 1-page outline of their presentation when they turn in their debate paper (they may choose either the affirmative or negative position) and must participate in the Q&A.

Outline: The times given are maximum times for presenting:

Background (8 min)

A1 – Opening (4min)

N1 – Opening (4min)

N2 – Challenge (3 min)

A1 - Response to Questions (2 min)

A2 – Challenge (3 min)

N1 – Response to Question (2 min)

A2 – Closing (3 min)

N2 – Closing (3 min)

Class Q & A (20 min)

You are free to bring in any props necessary to make your argument.

*Note to Presenters: You will be graded on the preparedness of your presentation and the quality of your arguments. You are expected to be an “expert” on this topic; you should know the arguments in defense of your position, as well as those of the other side, and be able to anticipate the critiques of your position. Obviously, you are expected to raise the points from the assigned readings, however students who only present arguments in the assigned readings will be penalized. During the class Q & A each member will be allowed to respond to the audience’s questions– the quality of your response will indicate how well you have prepared and thus have a significant impact on your presentation grade. *Be aware of your audience when presenting; be enthusiastic, engaging, organized, and *do not read from your notes! I encourage all students to come see me during my office hours before their debate.

*Note to Audience: You are expected to play an active role in the Q&A. You will be tested on the content of these debates. Do not take notes on the peer evaluations – you hand these in and therefore will not have notes for your final exam.
