ASSIGNMENTS

There are four different types of assignments for this course, each serving different learni objectives.

- ➤ Quizzes (30%): Quizzes will be taken via eLC and are due each Thursday at 8 a.m. (see calendar below for details). Each quiz is open book with with no time limit and include multiple choice, multiple selection, or true/false questions. Each quiz is automatically graded. The purpose of these quizzes is to test your comprehension of points made in t reading material. No quizzes will be opened past the deadline as these are opened at th beginning of the semester, so be sure to work well ahead of schedule.
- ➤ Discussion Posts (30%): Weekly discussion posts will also be submitted via eLC and ar due Tuesdays at 8 a.m. following the week in which the material was discussed (see cal below for details). For these posts, students are broken into small groups and must add the key questions posed throughout the week (and recorded in the description of each particle The purpose of these posts are threefold: (1) to test broad application of key theoretical tools and content covered in class, (2) to have students provide their original perspective on important international events, and (3) to encourage students to engage with the opinions of their classmates. Discussion posts are graded manually using an associated rubric (available on eLC). No discussions will be opened past the deadline without documentation that excuses a person for the five days before the deadline, so be sure to work well ahead of schedule.
- Solution of the paper will be worked on in class and submitted via eLC at eight in morning different points throughout the semester (see calendar below for details). This project will be in lieu of traditional in-class exams and the total assignment will count to percent toward your overall grade. The specific purpose of these assignments is to have students create an original, clear, and sophisticated theoretical argument with empirical support to addresses an intriguing puzzle occurring in the international system. The brobjective of this assignment is for students to learn the tools to systematically examine international political phenomena and to develop skills for communicating original insi most effectively. Quality articles will be submitted for editorial review for an independe run blog, World Citizens' Press (see www.worldcitizenspress.net). No projects will be acceptafter the deadlines without documentation that excuses a person for the seven days beforthe deadline, so please be sure to work well ahead of schedule.
- Attendance & Participation (10%): Attendance and active participation while in attendance together count ten percent toward your overall grade. To be counted for attendance, students will need to sign in at the beginning of class each day. Please comearly to ensure enough time for you to sign in and be in your seat before class starts.
 - Tardy: If you arrive after class starts, please do not interrupt the class to sign in. Instead, you may sign in after class. Beware that, if you do not sign in at all for a cl period, it will count as an unexcused absence. It is your responsibility to keep up w your attendance record throughout the semester.
 - Excused. Absences and tardies are excused when they are: (1) because of participa in University-sanctioned activities and programs, (2) because of personal illness, or because of compelling family and/or other circumstances. You must provide writte

- documentation (from an authority other than yourself) and submit it via the appropriate dropbox on eLC no later than one week after the class period in questi
- Unexcused Make-Up Assignments. If you wish not to receive points off your overall grade, you may submit a make-up assignment to excuse either one absence one tardy. The assignment is to create a video, blog, or podcast entry that delves m fully into one of the questions posed for that day's discussion. You must include th outside sources and submit the assignment to the attendance dropbox on eLC in li a written excuse.
- Deadlines for Documentation. The deadline for any excused or unexcused documentation are Thursday, March 8th at 8 a.m. for any absences or tardies prior then and Thursday, April 19th at 8 a.m. for any absences or tardies from March 20th April 19th.
- O Grading. If you have an excused document or unexcused make-up assignment submitted via eLC before the deadlines above, then no points will be taken off of your grade. If, however, you do not submit any documentation and have an unexcused tardy, it will count toward one percent of your overall grade. Each unexcused abserwithout documentation will count off two percent of your overall grade. No more that ten percent will be taken off of your grade due to unexcused absences or tardies.
- Quality Participation. You are expected to be a good citizen in this course. Class contributions should include meaningful insights that improve the overall quality of discussion. This comprises (but is not limited to) using respectful behavior when disagreeing (or agreeing) with other students and fully participating in class activit (e.g. refraining from using electronic devices for any purpose of than the class). If y are failing to meet the expectations outlined above, you will be given a warning; if y continue such behavior, your attendance/participation grade will be deducted for t day.
