CHARLES S. BULLOCK III EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING FUND

As he begins his 51st year in the classroom – no he is not retiring – Dr. Bullock remains passionate about the importance of “hands-on” learning. He has helped hundreds of students obtain internships at the state capitol and elsewhere, often resulting in the connections and experience that launched their career.

In addition, Dr. Bullock is a keen advocate for the value of study abroad. Having taught in the Verona, Italy study abroad program since 2000 and two years at Oxford, Dr. Bullock has seen first-hand how this type of experience can be life-changing for those lucky enough to have the resources to attend.

“Dr. Bullock’s advice and counsel leading up to and during my internship truly helped launch my career. Of course, I received tremendous value from what he taught me in class, but all the more so in the way he encouraged me professionally. And I’ve been so grateful for his continued interest in my career.”

- Julie C. Smith, Vice President of External Affairs, Verizon

To honor Dr. Bullock’s dedication to experiential learning and to ensure these opportunities are available to all students, regardless of financial means, the Bullock Experiential Learning Fund in the School of Public and International Affairs will support internships, study abroad scholarships, and other experiential learning opportunities for students, with a preference given to those with financial need.
