Course Description: Comparative political themes in political science. The transition from feudalism to capitalism, state building, democracy, and interaction between political institutions and cultures in various politics. Examples will be drawn from developed, communist/post-communist and developing political systems. PREREQUISITE: POLS 1101 or INTL 1100

“Those who only know one country, know no country.” – Seymour Lipset

Raise d’Être of the Course: The crux of comparative political science is this: by examining two or more countries in the light of various political theories – and by comparing two or more themes and/or functions across countries – one learns from the differences and similarities uncovered. Such analysis can also lead to an understanding of one’s own political system, and therefore one can begin to ask and investigate political questions that have a direct bearing on one’s own life and values. This process requires disciplined investigation and critical thinking skills; we shall work to develop these throughout the course.

Texts:

We shall use two main textbooks for the course:

O’Neil, Patrick, Essentials of Comparative Politics. Sixth Edition (New York: WW Norton & Company, Inc.) 2018.

ISBN: 978-0-393-62458-8 (paperback) OR

ISBN: 978-0-393-63134-0 (e-book)

Weston, Anthony. A Rulebook for Arguments. (5th Edition) Indianapolis: Hackett Publishing Company, Inc. 2017.

ISBN: 978-1-62466-654-4 (paperback) OR (e-book)

Additional Readings: There will also be selected readings from other texts and news articles, some of which are listed in the course schedule below, and some which will be determined later (and will be posted on the course’s site on the eLC). Please NOTE: The readings that will be posted on the course Web site are for use by students in this course ONLY! Please do not share these copyrighted materials with others, else I shall receive a nasty “cease and desist order” from the publishers. Not fun.

Syllabus | Fall 2020 | DRAFT
INTL 3300 | Introduction to Comparative Politics | CRN# 22088

Goals of the Course:

Over the semester, we shall undertake an examination of the different approaches – both theoretical and thematic – to the study of comparative politics.

By the end of the semester, we shall be able to do the following:

Skills/knowledge related to the course content:

- identify the political institutions of a society, explain their configuration and how & why they may change
- explain how a society's political economy is organized and how it can affect potential political outcomes (such as elections or legislation)
- identify & explain how political culture and history structure political choices in a given society
- assess how political institutions, political economy, and political culture and history may interact with one another to affect political outcomes
- compare different systems and countries to the case of the United States (which we shall use as a base reference) to explain political outcomes

Practical skills/knowledge that can be applied in a job/career setting:

- perform critical comparative assessments of the differences and similarities we find, asking whether or not a country's political institutions, economy, or culture may provide viable answers or policy prescriptions to some of the current political problems and challenges that many countries face today (such as immigration policy/migration flows, political violence/extremism, environmental concerns, the impact of protest, the meaning of globalization, and response to public health crises)
- develop sharper critical thinking skills that will enable you to better understand and assess the value of news articles, research papers, policy positions, and other content on the political affairs of different systems of governance and different societies
- apply theoretical tools from the course to explain, predict, or prescribe policy reform and political behavior as a researcher or practitioner in the field of politics
- explain and communicate theoretical concepts and findings with more effective written and verbal communication skills
- apply what we have learned to current world political events, so that we may better understand their meaning and impact on outcomes

Tools of the Course: eLC, GroupMe, and FlipG

We shall be using a number of tools that are accessible on-line to deliver material, assignments, and communication. These tools will respect your privacy at all times, and those outside of the class will not be granted access to them.

The course materials will be primarily located on eLC. We shall use e-mail and FlipGrid (your UGA address, please!) as well as GroupMe for communication, so please be familiar with each of these apps. FlipGrid is an interactive short video app that will allow us to share ideas and feedback with one another (a primer for FlipGrid can be found here: <https://help.flipgrid.com/hc/en-us/articles/360051542894>). The access info you need for FlipGrid and GroupMe can be found at the top of this syllabus.

Be sure to check your UGA e-mail and/or announcements on eLC at least once a day! 😊

About Our Class and Syllabus This Semester

Greetings, and I hope you are all well. Under the circumstances (which are surely affecting us all quite differently), I'd like you to focus on the following as we work together this semester:

- Do what you can and what is right for you. I've built flexibility into our weekly sessions to try to help us manage under an in-person hybrid course AND an on-line-only course. If you feel the need to participate in the course remotely for any reason, please just let me know (jenx@uga.edu – no justification needed) so that I can make appropriate adjustments to my in-person class schedules. If your circumstances change at all during the semester, it's OK to change your attendance preference. Bottom line: don't stress if things are a bit overwhelming – which leads to the second point...
- Communicate. If you are not able to keep up, or something is not clear, or you are facing other challenges that are affecting your course work, please let me know. I can adjust things for us if I know there are difficulties. Be sure to check your e-mail AND eLC at least once a day! There is also a GroupMe for the course, in case anyone has wi-fi hindrances.
- Try to keep to the daily and weekly schedule, and keep up with each week's assignments. I've tried to make the reading assignments manageable, and I'll be producing "lecture nugget" videos (two or so videos of about 5-7 minutes each, featuring materials, PowerPoints, video clips, me and likely my cats...) each week to go over the main concepts/points of the week's material. These will be available on Mondays, and you should try to view them before that week's discussion session.
- DON'T FIXATE ON GRADES. I always say this, but this time, please take it to heart. Focus on keeping up with the material and translating that to the assignments. We're in a different learning environment this semester, but we should be able to work through the material and assignments rather well, and hopefully learn a few things along the way. ☺
- This is still new territory for most of us. Despite last semester's shift to on-line classes, I've not designed a fully-on-line course before this semester. I've worked hard over the summer to learn – and I'll be doing my best – but I cannot foresee how everything will unfold. You may be in a similar boat, so we'll work together, and give each other a break if things get a little weird.
- Put your health and safety needs first. Much remains uncertain, but taking care of yourself and your loved ones should be your primary priority. Whilst on campus, please follow these precautions:
 - WEAR A MASK! I shall not conduct in-person classes unless every student in the classroom wears a mask (and it's UGA policy). I'll have a limited supply of disposable masks that I can give you if you need one. Students seeking an accommodation related to face coverings should contact the Disability Resource Center at <https://drc.uga.edu/>.
 - DawgCheck:
Please perform a quick symptom check each weekday on DawgCheck—on the UGA app or website—whether you feel sick or not. It will help health providers monitor the health situation on campus: <https://dawgcheck.uga.edu/>
 - What do I do if I have symptoms?
Students showing symptoms should self-isolate and schedule an appointment with the University Health Center by calling 706.542.1162 (Monday-Friday, 8 AM -5 PM). Please DO NOT walk-in. For emergencies and after-hours care, see <https://www.uhs.uga.edu/info/emergencies>.

We are in an unprecedented situation, but we shall do our best together to generate a great learning experience this semester! I know we've got this!! ☺

Syllabus | Fall 2020 | DRAFT
INTL 3300 | Introduction to Comparative Politics | CRN# 22088

My Expectations of You:

As an introduction to an entire subfield of political science, this course will be covering a great deal of ground, and we may not be able to cover adequately a theme or area of the world that is of interest to you. There will be, however, opportunity for you to delve more deeply into particular areas/countries of interest in the group project (described below).

It is essential that you prepare each week and keep up with the readings, assignments, and discussions. Each week's reading and lecture assignments should be completed before our discussion sessions (on-line or in-person), and each student must be ready to conduct a quality discussion during those meetings. In addition, lectures will not be mere repetition of the reading material, and students will be expected to come to class ready to expand on the readings and assignments. In effect, we shall be building the class meetings together, so each student must be engaged in the class.

What You Can Expect from Me:

I shall strive to offer you a fair, manageable workload that will address the essential concepts and knowledge you'll need to serve as the foundation for upper-level Comparative Politics courses. I shall also connect what we discuss with current events to help you gain a greater understanding of our course concepts and certain events happening in the world. Please note that our discussions of current events will be related to the topic(s) we are discussing in the course; if you're not making the connections, let's please chat about that!

You can book a specific time during my office hours to see me at jenx.youcanbook.me. Appointments can be scheduled in 15-minute increments; if you think you might need a longer visit than 15 minutes, please book more than one time slot. If you will be unable to meet with me after having scheduled a time, please delete the appointment at jenx.youcanbook.me, so others may be able to schedule at that time.

You should indeed feel free to communicate with me on any question or issue you are having in the course. This is your course: you should be active in what you're learning and with regard to what you wish to learn. If something isn't working or isn't clear, please speak up – I'll give you opportunity to give feedback along the way, but the sooner I know about an issue, the sooner I can attempt to correct it!

Ground Rules:

Please note the following:

1. First and foremost: communicate. If anything occurs that might affect your ability to participate or do the work for the class, please let me know. I have had many students who have felt overwhelmed yet waited too long to speak to me (or did not communicate at all) about the situation: if I know that you are facing challenges, I can work with you or help you find assistance so that you can successfully manage the course.
2. Be sure you know what the heck plagiarism is (see www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/plagiarize). Work submitted for this course must be your own work; all necessary citations must be properly provided when you cite anyone or anything else: All academic work must meet the standards contained in "A Culture of Honesty." Students are responsible for knowing these standards before performing any academic work, and we shall discuss points of academic ethics and plagiarism in class. For more information, see: honesty.uga.edu/ahpd/culture_honesty.htm. To reiterate: any incidents of plagiarism or intellectual fraud (see www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/fraud) will be treated as the most serious offense, and you really don't want to go to a University hearing over this – it's scary AF.

Syllabus | Fall 2020 | DRAFT
INTL 3300 | Introduction to Comparative Politics | CRN# 22088

If you need help in determining what constitutes plagiarism and how to avoid committing this most egregious intellectual sin, please consult me or our kickin'-est SPIA Librarian, Elizabeth White (elwhite1@uga.edu, no relation).

3. Late work: I shall accept late work on an individual basis: that is, I may accept it, I may not. Do not depend on my acceptance of late work. For me to consider any submission of late work, you must communicate to me before the deadline that the assignment will be late; I shall not accept any late submission otherwise.
4. Back up your work! Purchase an inexpensive USB drive or use an on-line storage site like Dropbox, and use this storage back-up frequently! If your laptop crashes right before an assignment is due, you want to be sure to have something to turn in. (And this back-up routine is an incredibly good habit to get into for your work in all of your classes!)
5. Letters of recommendation: I receive many of these requests each semester. To guarantee that I can complete each request and do so as well as possible, note the following:
 - a. I am limiting the number of new requests for such letters to ten (10) each semester. (This does not apply for those of you for whom I have written a letter in the past).
 - b. In all cases, I shall require at least a three-week notice before the letter is due (more time is always appreciated!). ☺
6. Our discussions may touch upon ideas or topics on which we may not all agree – in fact, this will probably be the case. Each student is expected to be courteous and respectful of the viewpoints and ideas of all others in the class, although disagreements are certainly acceptable. In discussions, you should make an effort to provide either a theoretical or empirical basis for your comments (i.e., facts – and there is no such thing as an “alternative fact”). This is a major part of becoming a good critical thinker, which is one of the goals of this course.
7. This syllabus is a general plan; it may be necessary for me to amend any part of the syllabus as we proceed through the course. (Let’s face it: it will likely happen.) Announcements will generally be made in class and on the course Web site, so you should be sure to attend each class, and to check the course Web site on ELC often. If you note any errors (likely) anywhere in the syllabus, please let me know.

Grading:

Participation/Communication	➔	15%
Quizzes (four, plus four optional)	➔	15%
Journal Reflections (around four)	➔	10%

80-85	B	60-69	D

Syllabus | Fall 2020 | DRAFT
INTL 3300 | Introduction to Comparative Politics | CRN# 22088

Notes on Assignments:

Group Project Components: Each student will work as part of a small group to present one country case reading (Germany, Nigeria, Israel, Brazil – see the course schedule below). Each student will also work as part of a small group on a project consisting of an e-copy “brochure” and an individual written annotated bibliography that summarizes research on a country that the group selects to investigate. The brochure will draw on the research that each individual performs for the country selected. Furthermore, each group will be responsible for critiquing the brochure of one other group. Finally, each student will perform a comparative analysis of the country that their group researched and the country of their peer-reviewed group. Hence, there are certain individual components to the group project. Details concerning the group project will be discussed in class in advance of the respective component assignments.

Quizzes:

Quizzes will generally be given on-line (eLC) most weeks by Friday, and you will have the weekend to complete them. You will only be required to complete four quizzes, however; the remaining four are optional, and I’ll take the four highest scores of all quizzes taken to compute your quiz grade. The quizzes will be open-book/open-note (the point is to get you into the book and allow you to learn the material, not merely memorize it temporarily for the quizzes!), but the work must be your own. Each quiz will cover the material since the prior quiz.

Journal Reflections:

You will be assigned up to four “journal reflections” on topics related to our material and class discussions throughout the semester. These are meant to be informal essays that enable you to explore the topics, reflecting on insights, experiences, or questions you have pertaining to the topics.

Additional assignments may also be given during the week. It is therefore essential that you attend either an in-class discussion meeting or a remote Zoom discussion meeting each week to receive these assignments. These assignments will count towards your participation grade.

Participation/ Communication: As objectives of the course include developing better critical thinking skills and being able to communicate concepts and ideas more effectively, participation counts significantly towards your final grade. A higher grade is contingent on active participation. I define participation broadly, however: raising questions or expressing confusion about the material; interacting with me outside of the classroom; posting interesting articles on the eLC course discussion board that relate to our course material. If you are concerned about participation, contact me and we can discuss strategies to raise your grade, but do not wait until the last day of class to do this, as it will be too late by then!

Communication, too, is important. I seriously cannot stress this point enough. If: something does not make sense to you; I am going too fast in lecture; you need help studying for quizzes or in completing assignments; you like/don’t like the textbook – all of these issues will be solved to our much greater mutual satisfaction if you simply communicate them to me BEFORE the end of the semester! I’m pretty approachable, and this is YOUR class and YOUR learning; so, if something is not working for you (or is working really well), TELL ME! This will allow me to make adjustments to the class that will likely benefit us all. Communicating, then, is part of your participation in the course, and hence, part of your grade.

And to reiterate part of the ground rules: if you feel overwhelmed or are having any difficulties that affect your performance in the class, tell me about this, too: I may be able to connect you with resources that can help you manage things better. Nothing – nothing – is more important than your well-being!

Class Schedule:

Classes will consist of lecture, group activities and work sessions, guest speakers, and film viewings (consult the schedule of assignments and classes below). This schedule is just a plan (not a contract!); changes may be necessary as we move through the semester.

- Readings marked with asterisks () can be found on eLC.
- "O'Neil" indicates a reading from our main textbook.
- "Weston" indicates a reading from the Rulebook for Arguments text.
- Lecture videos will be made available on Monday of each week on eLC (no class on Mondays!)

IMPORTANT: The remote students will be joining in on the Wednesday class session via Zoom (synchronous participation). We shall also have a current events discussion on Fridays, with the remote students also Zooming in.

We'll start our class sessions at 13:55 (to avoid increased congestion at building entrances).

If you need to change your attendance preference from in-person to on-line or vice versa, PLEASE NOTIFY ME IN ADVANCE, so I can manage class attendance accordingly.

ALL classes will be completely on-line for all students after Thanksgiving.
