I. Course Description

The study of state politics in the US has much to offer political scientists regardless of whether their interests lie in American Politics. State politics is inherently a comparative field for political analysis: within the parameters of the Constitution and legal/political framework of the federal government, the United States has fifty state governments and nearly ninety-thousand local governments serving as “laboratories of democracy”.

This course is designed to offer students a more thorough understanding of politics in the American states and equip them with tools to analyze states and public policy in a comparative perspective. The course is organized into two areas. We will begin the course with a look into the political development of the states and the relationships states have with their citizens, each other, and the national government. The second half of the course is focused primarily on the governing behaviors of state political institutions and the evolution of state politics overtime.

Important Note:

Due to the ongoing Covid19 pandemic this class will be administered using an asynchronous hybrid pedagogical model. Of the approaches the university is permitting this Spring, the asynchronous hybrid approach is the most flexible for students (…but probably the most demanding for faculty). You will be able to attend classes in person if you like, but I am not going to coerce any of you into risking your health by requiring attendance. We will make use of Zoom during the class periods to allow those of you who are not attending in person to tune in for the lectures. Lecture content will also be recorded and posted to eLC for asynchronous viewing. To be perfectly clear: you will be able to successfully complete this course without ever stepping foot in the classroom.

Please refer to pages 9 and 10 for more information about coronavirus and your responsibilities as part of our University community.

II. Course Requirements and Graded Evaluation

(2.1) Assigned Reading

Keeping up with the assigned readings is essential for your success in this course. You are not required to purchase any textbooks for this course, but we will be making use of electronic texts available through the library.
(2.2) Course Assignments
Your performance in this class will be measured using three (3) reflection papers, a research paper that I have broken up into four component parts, and a final exam. The reflection papers will ask you to select three weeks of the course for which you will write a reflective essay based on the readings. As an upper division political science course, the research paper will take the form of a political science research report like many of the articles you will be reading in the class this semester. Instructions for both the reflection papers and research papers will be posted to eLC assignment folders. The final exam is a written exam, it is a ‘take-home’ exam, and it is comprehensive of the course.

Here are some important dates for these assignments and the rubric I will follow for your final grade:

B- & = 80 & F & \leq 59
\end{align*}
\]

If you have any questions about what constitutes cheating, academic misconduct, or plagiarism, please examine the university policy and/or ask the instructor.

Coronavirus Information for Students

Face Coverings:

Effective July 15, 2020, the University of Georgia—along with all University System of Georgia (USG) institutions—requires all faculty, staff, students and visitors to wear an appropriate face covering while inside campus facilities/buildings where six feet social distancing may not always be possible. Face covering use is in addition to and is not a substitute for social distancing. Anyone not using a face covering when required will be asked to wear one or must leave the area. Reasonable accommodations may be made for those who are unable to wear a face covering for documented health reasons. Students seeking an accommodation related to face coverings should contact Disability Services at https://drc.uga.edu/.

DawgCheck:

Please perform a quick symptom check each weekday on DawgCheck—on the UGA app or website—whether you feel sick or not. It will help health providers monitor the health situation on campus: https://dawgcheck.uga.edu/.

What do I do if I have symptoms?

Students showing symptoms should self-isolate and schedule an appointment with the University Health Center by calling 706-542-1162 (Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.). Please DO NOT walk-in. For emergencies and after-hours care, see https://www.uhs.uga.edu/info/emergencies.

What do I do if I am notified that I have been exposed?

Students who learn they have been directly exposed to COVID-19 but are not showing symptoms should self-quarantine for 14 days consistent with Department of Public Health (DPH) and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines. Please correspond with your instructor via email, with a cc: to Student Care & Outreach at sco@uga.edu, to coordinate continuing your coursework while self-quarantined. If you develop symptoms, you should contact the University Health Center to make an appointment to be tested. You should continue to monitor your symptoms daily on DawgCheck.

How do I get a test?

Students who are demonstrating symptoms of COVID-19 should call the University Health Center. UHC is offering testing by appointment for students; appointments may be booked by calling 706-542-1162.

UGA will also be recruiting asymptomatic students to participate in surveillance tests. Students living in residence halls, Greek housing and off-campus apartment complexes are encouraged to participate.
What do I do if I test positive?

Any student with a positive COVID-19 test is required to report the test in DawgCheck and should self-isolate immediately. Students should not attend classes in-person until the isolation period is completed. Once you report the positive test through DawgCheck, UGA Student Care and Outreach will follow up with you.
