Course Description and Objectives
This course introduces students to the dynamics of East Asian political systems, including China, Taiwan, Japan, and South Korea and North Korea. We will trace critical historical trajectories of these systems, focusing on political evolution, economic development, and social transformation. We will survey important contemporary issues in these regimes before situating them in the regional context to examine the rivalry and cooperation among them. There are three primary goals: (1) to familiarize students with basic facts of East Asian political systems, (2) to present important theories and methods that have been applied to analyze East Asian societies, and (3) to help students develop analytical skills that are essential to understand political phenomena in and beyond East Asia.

Attendance and Participation (25%) Please read and reflect upon assigned readings and engage in discussion actively. You are also expected to write a mini response paper (two-page, single spaced) on the date you select. The response paper shall (1) effectively summarizing all assigned readings and (2) critically engage and reflect on one or more points you derive from the readings; (3) include one or two discussion questions. Please submit the response paper two days before the date you pick (for example: if you select August 27, you will do the reading on Goto-Jones, Modern Japan Chapter 1 and you shall submit the response paper by August 25 midnight). Response paper writers are expected to facilitate discussion on the topics that they have read. Due to the pandemic, you should definitely not attend the meetings and go to the doctor if you have any symptoms.

* The syllabus is a general plan for the course; updates and revisions may be necessary. Please inform the instructor if you have a disability that needs classroom accommodations.
Pop Quizzes (15%) Four pop quizzes will be administrated online. Your lowest score will be dropped and remaining three will each be 5% of the total grade. You’ll receive a notifying email via ELC before each quiz and you will have a one-day window to complete the quiz.

Mid-term (25%) and Final Exam (35%) The questions will be based on the readings, lectures and discussion. Detailed instructions will be announced before the exams.

For the final exam, you have the option to write a research paper instead of taking the final exam. You will select your topics with the instructor’s guidance. Only two restrictions on selection of topics: (1) It must involve one or more political systems in East Asia; (2) It must be empirical rather than normative. The end product shall be a 15-page paper. If you choose this option, please report to the instructor before November 8th, with a brief outline that includes your research topic, question, and potential data sources. Grading of the paper is similar to that of essay questions in exams. In both cases, you have to answer the question properly and sufficiently. The major difference is, if you opt to write a paper, you can pick your own question. You are expected to make an argument and try to convince readers with your analysis. Additional attention shall be paid to organization of the paper, the coherence of the analysis and the elaboration of your argument. You also have to cite sources properly and try your best to get rid of grammatical errors as you have more time and more preparation for the paper. Should you choose this option, please notify the instructor by November 1st and provide a one-page research plan that specifies your topic, research question, and data sources. The research paper is due December 13, 11am.

Grade Dispute:
If you have any questions about your exam grade, you shall report to the instructor within one week from the time you receive the grade. You need to present a written appeal explaining why you think your grade should be changed. Please also bear in mind that disputing grade may end up with higher, lower or no change in your grade.

Academic Honesty:
As a University of Georgia student, you have agreed to abide by the University’s academic honesty policy, “A Culture of Honesty,” and the Student Honor Code. All academic work must meet the standards described in “A Culture of Honesty” found at: www.uga.edu/honesty. Lack of knowledge of the academic honesty policy is not a reasonable explanation for a violation. Questions related to course assignments and the academic honesty policy should be directed to the instructor.
