Class Meeting Times: Tuesdays and Thursdays, 11:10AM-12:25PM

Class Location: 265 Park Hall

Goal of the Course: This course introduces the comparative study of politics and government. By the end of the course, students should understand why comparing regimes, political institutions, political processes, political actors, and public policy across countries is useful. In addition, students should understand how researchers study politics and government across countries using the tools of scientific inference. This course is also intended to provide an overview of domestic political structures around the world. Thus, students should become familiar with the basic varieties of political institutions and processes.

Required Readings:

Dickovick, J. Tyler, and Jonathan Eastwood. 2019. Third Edition. Comparative Politics: Integrating Theories, Methods, and Cases. Oxford: Oxford University Press.

Some journal articles, which are freely available to you online or in the library.

Student Responsibilities:

Readings: Students are required to do the readings for each class period. I expect everyone to finish the readings for each class ahead of time.

Comparative Election Report: There will be a research report in which students will compare and contrast recent national elections in two countries. More details will be provided in a handout.

Country Case Study (Honors Option Only): Students who elect to take this course for Honors credit will produce a case study, which they will present at the end of the semester. The presentations should be similar to the case studies that I present in class. More details will be provided in a handout.

Exams: There will be two required in-class exams (a midterm and a final). The format of each exam will be announced ahead of time. The final exam is non-cumulative.

Participation/Quizzes: I expect students to be attentive and to contribute when appropriate. There will also be a small number of short, unannounced quizzes that will cover recent readings and course material. Your completion of/performance on these will help me assess your participation grade. I also strongly encourage students to read articles from national and international news sources that are pertinent to class material. Though I will not take attendance, being present is important; you have to be in class to participate and to take the quizzes!

Grades:

Participation/Quizzes:	10%
Exams:	70% (35% each)
Comparative Election Report:	20%

There are no extra credit assignments in this course.

Policy on Laptops and Smartphones: The use of smartphones during class is prohibited, but students may use their laptops to take notes or to refer to the readings. Students may not, however, browse the web or use social media. Students caught doing so will lose participation points.

Late/Missed Assignments: Missed assignments will result in a zero without a university-approved medical excuse or family emergency. Students will be penalized for late assignments; 20% of the grade for each day late without a university-approved medical excuse or family emergency. Make-up exams can be arranged with the instructor with a university-approved medical excuse or family emergency.

Inclusiveness and Accessibility: In this course, I will strive to create an inclusive and accessible online environment. Regarding disabilities, in collaboration with the Disability Resource Center, I will work with students who need special accommodations or academic support. For more information, visit the Disability Resource Center's website at: <https://drc.uga.edu>.

Mental Health and Wellness Resources: If you or someone you know needs assistance, you are encouraged to contact Student Care and Outreach in the Division of Student Affairs at 706-542-7774 or visit <https://sco.uga.edu>. They will help you navigate any difficult circumstances you may be facing by connecting you with the appropriate resources or services. Academic Integrity: The academic honesty policy of the university is supplemented (not replaced) by an Honor Code which was adopted by the Student Government Association and approved by the University Council May 1, 1997, and provides: “I will be academically honest in all of my academic work and will not tolerate academic dishonesty of others.” All students agree to abide by this code by signing the UGA Admissions Application.
