POLS 4790: Native American Politics
University of Georgia - Fall 2023

Instructor: Elise Blasingame
Office Hours: By Appointment
elise.blasingame@uga.edu

Class Meets: Tuesdays & Thursdays, 3:55pm-5:10pm, Baldwin 322

Course Description
This course examines the unique politics and governance of the 600+ Native Nations in North America and their intersection with American political institutions. We will explore contemporary issues related to tribal sovereignty, federal Indian policy, economic development, and administration to provide a balanced understanding of tribal politics today. The course includes review of primary documents and work by tribal leaders, as well as some of the leading Native American scholars in the field to explore these issues as they affect Native Nations at the ground level.

Course Objectives
By completing this course, I hope you will be able to:

- Be able to explain tribal sovereignty and the unique trust relationship between Native Nations and the U.S. federal government and state governments (courts, legislatures, and the executive branch).
- Recognize how tribes engage in lobbying, voting, and campaign politics to achieve policy goals.
- Integrate cultural perspectives in Native leadership and theories of justice and governance.
- Compare Indigenous government system types and general laws and policies of Native Nations.
- Examine the struggle for Indigenous rights and theories of leadership.
- Appraise tribal economies and tribal community development initiatives.

Course Texts
- American Indian Politics and the American Political System by David E. Wilkins and Heidi Kïwetinepinesik Stark (4th Edition).
- Other assigned readings will be made available to you via E-Learning Commons (https://uga.view.usg.edu/)

Grading
I use something called specifications grading in this course. It gives you as the student control over how much you engage with materials. If you are unhappy with how you did on an assignment, this means you can resubmit based on the feedback I provide until you are satisfied with the outcome. This is meant to get us focused on learning and not worried about earning points (there aren’t any in this class!).
• All assignments are graded using the following rubric sourced from Robert Talbert.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mark</th>
<th>Criteria</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Success</td>
<td>All parts of the assignment have a good-faith effort at a complete and correct response, and the work is mostly correct with no more than a few errors (and no major errors).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Retry</td>
<td>All parts of the assignment have a good-faith effort at a complete and correct response, but either there are numerous minor errors to correct or at least one major error.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incomplete</td>
<td>At least one part of the assignment has no work for it; or there is work but it is not a serious attempt at a correct response; or there are major errors throughout the work; or the work is not legible.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Each assignment will have clearly outlined objectives and standards for achieving an “S” assessment. I will review all assignments and provide feedback for your consideration in order to strengthen your final learning portfolio (see below). I highly suggest you use this feedback, and that of your peers, to make your final submissions as strong as possible.

An assessment of “I” indicates that there was insufficient effort put into the assignment. In these cases, you may resubmit but I will not provide feedback on the first attempt (as there is likely not much to provide feedback on).

There will also be times when you are asked to review and provide feedback to others in the course. It is everyone’s responsibility to provide helpful, thoughtful, and respectful feedback to one another, in a timely manner, so that everyone may succeed in the course.

At the end of the semester, you will submit a portfolio of your work from the semester. This includes all of your assignments. We will use this to determine a final grade that appropriately reflects the effort and finished products you are submitting. This portfolio only consists of your final work product for each assignment.

Note:

• There are a total of 11 weekly reflections.
• These figures assume an “S” assessment to “pass” that assignment.
• In order to receive a “D” or above you must complete the syllabus quiz.
Deadlines

Deadlines for each assignment are provided in the Assignment Schedule in this syllabus. Please add them to your calendar.

Each week, you may re-submit up to (2) revised assignments in addition to any assignment that is due that same week. This is to ensure that you do not fall behind in re-submitting revised assignments and also for my grading sanity.

ASSIGNMENTS

1. Weekly Reading Reflections – Every week, you will complete your reading reflection by Wednesday at 11:59PM. These will cover material from that week and are meant to prepare you for discussion on Thursdays.

2. Critical Thinking Assignments – There will be three critical thinking assignments to choose from throughout the semester. You are only responsible for submitting ONE of these. These are meant to help you more deeply engage with an aspect of what we are learning in class. All assignment options will be made available for you to see by Week 2. You are welcome to turn in any of these early, but late assignments will not be accepted.

3. Final Project – Acknowledging that you will each have a different interest area that brings you to this course, I would like for you to create a final project that reflects (a) your learning from the course and (b) how you might apply that to something you are passionate about. The final project guidelines will be posted, but there will be two deadlines:
   a. Project Proposal – Instead of a midterm exam, you will submit a project outline that includes an abstract describing your project topic and purpose, a description of your project plan, and the medium in which you will work (e.g., writing, video, poetry, or visual arts, etc.).
   b. Final Project – Instead of a final exam, you will present your final project to our class. We will use peer-grading as part of the assessment for this project to ensure everyone is present and engaged in mutual success. Your participation as a constructive peer-grader will also be considered as a part of your learning portfolio.

4. Class Participation – We’re a learning community and a class setting only works if people are present to learn from and with one another. I ask that everyone show up to class on a regular basis, listen during lecture and actively engage in class discussions. If you do not show up, expect that to impact your final grade as it will be considered alongside your final learning portfolio.
COURSE POLICIES

Office Hours

Students who are having difficulty with the course materials and/or assignments are encouraged to set up an appointment for office hours. I really enjoy meeting with students! However, please note that office hours are for clarification of material, not for recreating a lecture if you missed class. For that, please get with other students to share notes and get a recap.

Syllabus Policy

I reserve the right to make changes to the syllabus if necessary. I will give you fair notice (at least a week) if something, such as a reading assignment, is going to change.

Preferred Name and Pronouns

Class rosters are provided to me with the student’s legal name – sometimes that does not include your preferred name and/or gender identity. I would genuinely like to address you by your preferred name and/or pronouns. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records.

Disability Resource Center

If you anticipate needing classroom or exam accommodations due to the impact of a disability or medical condition, you must register for services with the Disability Resource Center. Additional information can be found here: http://drc.uga.edu/

Withdrawal Policy

Undergraduate students can only withdraw from four courses and receive a withdrawal-passing (WP) grade while enrolled at the University. Students can drop any class without penalty during the drop/add period at the beginning of every semester. Dropped courses during the drop/add period do not qualify as withdrawals. Instructors can withdraw a student from the class due to excessive absences. Please review the policy here: https://reg.uga.edu/general-information/policies/withdrawals/

Culture of Honesty Policy

You are responsible for knowing and complying with the policy and procedures relating to academic honesty. To understand what constitutes dishonest work, as defined by the University, please carefully review the policy here: https://honesty.uga.edu/_resources/documents/UGA-AHPolicy-2022.pdf

Violations of the academic dishonesty rules are grounds for receiving an “F” in the course as well as possible expulsion from the university. If you have any questions about what constitutes cheating, academic misconduct, or plagiarism, examine the university policy and/or ask me.

Emails

Please give me at least 24 hours to respond to emails on weekdays and 48 hours on weekends. If I do not respond by then, please do follow-up! As instructors, our inboxes can become overwhelmed very quickly and I genuinely want to be available when you have questions or need assistance.

ChatGPT and AI

You are welcome to use the abundant resources created by the machine learning world. I use them for some types of political science research myself! However, you must use these responsibly. If you use it, you should note that in the assignment. You should also be prepared to comment on what you used it for, what it got right and what it got wrong. And trust me, it got something wrong.

Mental Health and Wellness Resources

If you or someone you know needs assistance, you are encouraged to contact Student Care and Outreach in the Division of Student Affairs at 706-542-7774 or visit https://sco.uga.edu. They will help you navigate any difficult circumstances you may be facing by connecting you with the appropriate resources or services. UGA has several resources for a student seeking mental health services (https://www.uhs.uga.edu/bewelluga/bewelluga) or crisis support (https://www.uhs.uga.edu/info/emergencies). If you need help managing stress anxiety, relationships, etc., please visit BeWellUGA (https://www.uhs.uga.edu/bewelluga/bewelluga) for a list of FREE workshops, classes, mentoring, and health coaching led by licensed clinicians and health educators in the University Health Center.

Land and Labor Acknowledgment

I humbly acknowledge that our activities at the University of Georgia take place on land that European colonizers stole from Indigenous peoples through violence. Athens is on the ancestral homelands of the Muscogee (Creek) and Cherokee peoples; lands that were seized from tribes toward the creation of our University. It is well documented that enslaved people of African descent provided exploited labor on the land where the University of Georgia was built. It is our job as members of the UGA community to acknowledge these critical aspects of our collective history and how they may shape experiences for students, faculty and staff, as well as members of our broader communities.

Prohibition on Recording Classes

In the absence of written authorization from the UGA Disability Resource Center, students may not make a visual or audio recording of any aspect of this course.

Students who have a recording accommodation agree in writing that they:

- Will use the records only for personal academic use during the specific course.
- Understand that faculty members have copyright interest in their class lectures and that they agree not to infringe on this right in any way.
- Understand that the faculty member and students in the class have privacy rights and agree not to violate those rights by using recordings for any reason other than their own personal study.
- Will not release, digitally upload, broadcast, transcribe, or otherwise share all or any part of the recordings. They also agree that they will not profit financially and will not allow others to benefit personally or financially from lecture recordings or other course materials.
- Will erase/delete all recordings at the end of the semester.
- Understand that violation of these terms may subject them to discipline under the Student Code of Conduct or subject them to liability under copyright laws.

I would like to acknowledge and thank the members of the Indigenous Studies Network at the American Political Science Association, as well as the faculty and staff of the Udall Foundation, Native Nations Institute at the University of Arizona, and the American Indian Policy Institute at Arizona State University who influenced many of the readings for this course.

Tentative Course & Assignment Schedule

Unless otherwise noted, read Wilkins & Stark by Tuesday and the eLC readings/media by Thursday. Typically, Tuesday will be lecture day and Thursday will be discussion day.
