COURSE OVERVIEW

This course serves as an introduction to the institutions and functionings of American government. We will explore the American federal system, as well as the Georgia state system. The first part of the course will cover the American founding. As a group, we will examine and debate the goals of the founders. We will do the same with the institutions they designed to realize them. This will allow us to get a sense of both the origins and justifications of our constitutional system. In the second part of the course we will examine the contemporary functionings of these institutions, comparing them with our findings about their historical origins and justifications. Throughout the course, we will study similar themes related to the institutions of government in the state of Georgia.

Students should come away from the course with a stronger understanding of the American political system, as well as the tools to express their own opinions about its various features and functions.

GRADING BREAKDOWN

ATTENDANCE & PARTICIPATION: 20%

This is not an assignment heavy course. There are no weekly quizzes or reading checks. That means success in the course requires you to show up to class and participate in the discussion. This will constitute 20% of your grade. If you will not be able to make a session, and have a legitimate reason (documented illness, athletics, etc.) please let me know prior to the missed session. Repeated absences will decrease your attendance and participation grade. If you are uncomfortable speaking in a classroom setting meet with me in office hours and we can come up with alternative arrangements.

ASSIGNMENT #1 MAPPING A POLITICAL DISPUTE: 25% (DUE 9/18)

This assignment asks you to identify a political dispute in a community (something below the national level) and try to “map” out the various factions or groups that have some stance on it. This can be very local (e.g. something happening at UGA or in Athens) or it can be more general (e.g. a dispute about a newly proposed tax at the state level). The goal is for you to figure out who the various groups are, what each thinks about the issue and why. Then, you will provide an evaluation of which faction(s), if any, you think are in the right. This will help us to understand the broad array of competing perspectives and interests in American politics. You will turn in a visualization (in the format of your choosing) of the political dispute you have mapped, and a brief (3-4 pages double spaced, 12 pt. font) write up of the various groups (e.g. who they are, what they are united by, what they want). Students should be prepared to discuss their findings with the class and share their visualizations. Further instructions will be provided.

Assignment #2 Research Paper First Submission: 25% (Due 10/18)
You will write one paper in this course (in two drafts). The paper will ask you to pick an institution either of American national government or in the state of Georgia. You will research the historical origins of the institution, focusing on the justifications its designers provided. Then, you will think about the way the institution operates today. Finally, you will evaluate whether or not the institution functions as it was intended to and whether or not you think that is a good function. Further instructions will be provided. We will also spend ample time discussing what a university level research paper looks like and how to go about writing one. Your first submission should be between 6-7 double spaced pages with 12 pt. font.

Assignment #3 Research Paper Final Submission: 30% (Due 12/5)
You will receive detailed feedback and suggestions on the first submission of your paper. Your final assignment will be to take this constructive feedback and integrate it into a new draft of the paper. This draft will need to be slightly longer (7-9 double spaced pages, 12 pt. font), so it will require you to expand your arguments. This assignment will entail revising and rewriting significant portions of the paper. At the end of the assignment, you will have a much better sense of how to write successful research papers at the university level, as well as how to respond to and integrate constructive feedback on your work.
