Office hours: By appointment.
jmaltese@uga.edu

Purpose of the course: POLS 4700 is part of a sequence of courses dealing with the theory and practice of American constitutional law. This segment deals primarily with separation of powers within the national government (the specific powers of Congress, the Executive Branch, and the Judiciary) and with issues of federalism (the division of power between the national government and the states).

Required text:

As appropriate, I will provide supplemental reading in eLC.

Course requirements:

There will be two essay exams and a five-page paper (that together will account for two-thirds of your grade) and two identify exams dealing primarily with the identification of cases and concepts (that together will account for one-third of your grade). The paper will count as half of your final exam grade (midterm = one-third of your grade, and final + paper = one-third of your grade). You are expected to keep up with the reading and to attend class on a regular basis.

STUDENTS ARE TO BE PRESENT ON ALL TESTING DAYS. There will be no make-up exams without documented evidence of illness or family emergency.

The course syllabus is a general plan for the course; deviations announced to the class by the instructor may be necessary.
Academic Honesty:

ALL WORK ON ALL ASSIGNMENTS MUST BE YOUR OWN. All academic work must meet the standards contained in “A Culture of Honesty.” Students are responsible for informing themselves about those standards before performing any academic work. Ignorance of what constitutes plagiarism is no excuse, so familiarize your self with what plagiarism is. I will refer cases of suspected academic dishonesty to the Office of Judicial Programs. The link to more detailed information about academic honesty can be found at: https://honesty.uga.edu/Academic-Honesty-Policy/

Course Format:

This class will be a fully face-to-face class with all exams to be taken in person. You are strongly advised to attend all classes.
