Course Description

This course examines a broad range of topics related to political violence. Its primary focus is “internal” political violence, meaning we will not read much about international conflict and war. For the most part, we will read about and discuss violent political events that take place in the context of a dispute between a country’s national government and individuals or groups that live in that country. Topics covered include state formation, civil war, mass protest and rebellion, ethnic conflict, terrorism, state violence, and genocide. From time to time you will encounter material that contains graphic discussions or depictions of violence. I will always let you know about this material beforehand.

Course Objectives

One purpose of this course is to acquire knowledge of actual violent conflicts that have taken place in the past or that are still ongoing. To this end, we will read several detailed historical and journalistic accounts of particular events. However, this is not a history course. Its main purpose is to examine violent political conflict using the tools of social science. For this purpose, we will read studies that use theoretical models intended to apply to many different events, as well as studies that use statistical analysis to look for meaningful patterns (for example, to see whether certain kinds of countries are more prone to violent conflict than others). By the end of the course you will have a better understanding of what a social science approach to studying violent conflict entails, and how it can provide useful insights into real world events.

Required Reading

There will be no textbook in this class. All readings will be available on the ELC course site or through the UGA library’s website. You are expected to read the assigned material, and it is very unlikely that you will do well in the course if you do not. There will usually be 1 assigned reading per meeting. Some readings are more difficult than others. For more difficult or technical readings, and especially those that use theoretical models or statistical analysis, I will provide a non-technical overview and summary. To make sure everything is clear, I assume that you do not know anything about the topics we cover or the concepts and research methods used in the readings, though I am sure that is not true!

Exams

There are 2 exams in this course. They will have the same format and roughly the same length. Each will include around 20 multiple choice questions, 3-5 short answer questions that require a response of about 1 paragraph, and two essay questions that require a response of 1 page (about 3-5 paragraphs). The midterm exam will take place on February 29th. Students will receive their midterm exam grade via email within 2 weeks of completing the exam. The final exam is on Tuesday, May 7th at 12 p.m.

Response Essays

Students must submit 2 essays in response to general questions related to course topics/readings. Essay prompts will be provided during 5 select weeks, and will appear on the ELC site on Monday. If you want to submit a response essay for that week, you must submit it no later than 5 p.m. on Friday. Students choose which weeks they submit essays but must submit their first essay by Friday, February 16th, and must submit their second essay by Friday, April 19th. Essays should be submitted via the course website on ELC. Essays should be 1-2 pages, single spaced, with 1-inch margins and nothing in the heading except your name. Use a common font. The schedule for essay prompts is as follows:

- Prompt 1: Available Jan 14, due Jan 19 (states as violent organizations)
- Prompt 2: Available Feb 11, due Feb 16 (causes of civil war)
- Prompt 3: Available Mar 17, Mar 22 (ethnic conflict)
- Prompt 4: Available Apr 1, due Apr 5 (terrorism)
- Prompt 5: Available Apr 14, due Apr 19 (state violence in democracies)

Course Website

The course website can be accessed through elc.uga.edu. You will need to use this site to access the syllabus, course readings that are not available through the library’s website, and online course materials.
Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a plan for the course, and we may deviate from it. I will clearly communicate to students any changes that become necessary, and will do so in a timely manner.

Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities who require reasonable accommodations in order to participate in course activities or meet course requirements should contact the instructor or designate during regular office hours or by appointment.

Well-being, Mental Health, and Student Support

If you or someone you know needs assistance, you are encouraged to contact Student Care and Outreach in the Division of Student Affairs at 706-542-7774 or visit their webpage. They will help you navigate any difficult circumstances you may be facing by connecting you with the appropriate resources or services. UGA has several resources to support your well-being and mental health. Find out more here.

Counseling and Psychiatric Services (CAPS) is your go-to, on-campus resource for emotional, social and behavioral-health support. See also the Therapy Assistance Online Support site (TAOS), or call 706-542-2273 for 24/7 support . For crisis support see this page. The University Health Center offers FREE workshops, classes, mentoring and health coaching led by licensed clinicians or health educators. See here for more.

University Honor Code/Academic Honesty Policy

As a University of Georgia student, you have agreed to abide by the University’s academic honesty policy, “A Culture of Honesty,” and the Student Honor Code. All academic work must meet the standards described in “A Culture of Honesty” found at www.uga.edu/honesty. Lack of knowledge of the academic honesty policy is not a reasonable explanation for a violation. Questions related to course assignments and the academic honesty policy should be directed to the instructor.

Withdrawal Policy

Students who withdraw from the class before the withdrawal deadline (Thursday, March 21st) will be assigned a grade based on their performance (pass/fail) in the class up the point of withdrawal. This means that students who are failing will be assigned a “WF” grade even if they withdraw before the deadline. The university automatically assigns a “WF” grade upon withdrawal to students who withdraw from a class after the withdrawal deadline.
