Course Description:

This course offers an engaging survey of the history, politics and diplomacy of the Arab-Israeli conflict. The course deals with the historical origins and development of the conflict from the Dawn of Zionist emigration to Palestine in the 1880s until the present. Coverage includes introductions to modern Jewish and Arab histories, evolution of Zionism and Arab nationalism, demise of the Ottoman Empire, and the operation and demise of the British Mandate in Palestine, political, social and economic aspects of the conflict, the Cold War in the region, the evolution of Palestinian national identity, and Arab-Israeli wars and clashes from the early 1950s to the present, the role of the UN in the conflict, American, and European successes and failures in mediating the conflict and Israeli and Palestinians' respective, domestic political consideration. The course will conclude by looking at Iran nuclear questions, new diplomatic breakthroughs in the region and the changing place of the Palestinian national cause in defining Israeli regional diplomatic constraints and opportunities.

Course Goals—by the end of the semester, student will be able to:

- Articulate a diverse range of sides/perspectives/opinions amongst actors in the conflict, their origins and their implications from the dawn of Zionist motivated immigration to Palestine until today
- Think critically, through the lens of reliable scholarly (and other) sources, about the Arab-Israeli conflict and its many developments
- Defend a written/spoken argument with quality and reputable sources, nuance
- Use the scholarly frameworks from the course to better understand and analyze other global conflict zones, diplomatic processes
- Analyze and speak about A-I related headlines in a critical, nuanced and non-polemical way

Assignments

Quizzes:

There will be periodic quizzes and about the readings, course content during the semester.

Short writing assignments:

There will be two group writing assignments.

Presentation:

Students in the course will be divided into groups during the first half of the semester. During the last two weeks of the semester, each group will give a 20 minute presentation—details will be discussed in the first weeks of the semester.

Participation:

Students should regularly attend class, having read all the required readings. They should be prepared to both pose and answer questions about the readings and engage in discussion on the broader subject matter.

Midterm Exam:

Midterm exam covering the topics in the course so far.

Final Paper

The final paper topic will relate to students' group assignments, the countries they study during the semester for their presentation. Further instructions about the final paper will be discussed in the second half of the semester.

Policies

Academic Integrity:

Every student must agree to abide by UGA's academic honesty policy and procedures known as A Culture of Honesty and the University of Georgia Student Honor Code, which work together to define a climate of academic honesty and integrity at the university.

Use of generative AI:

Use of generative AI (i.e. ChatGPT, Perplexity AI, Claude etc.) is permitted only when explicitly allowed for specific assignments. When used, students must cite it appropriately and clearly indicate how it contributed to their work through a “Generative AI Disclosure” placed at the beginning of the assignment. Unauthorized or undisclosed use of AI tools will be treated as academic misconduct. If you're unsure whether AI use is allowed, ask before proceeding.

Attendance:

- You are allowed up to 3 unexcused absences without penalty. After that, each additional unexcused absence will lower your attendance/participation grade by 5 points. Excused absences (i.e. illness, family emergency, religious observance, university-sponsored activity) must be documented and communicated to me in advance or as soon as possible. You will have up to five days after an illness to provide a doctor's note.
- If you miss class, it is your responsibility to obtain any missed material or announcements from a classmate or the course website.

Special Needs

This course is guided by the assumption of dignity and respect for all persons in the classroom. My hope is to support diversity of learners and to provide a non-threatening environment. Students who feel they may need an accommodation based on the impact of a disability should contact me privately to discuss their specific needs. All discussions will remain confidential. To ensure that you receive the most appropriate reasonable accommodation based on your needs, contact me as early as possible in the quarter (preferably within the first week of classes), and make sure that you have contacted the Disability Resource Center: <http://drc.uga.edu>

In-Class Discussion Guidelines:

Civility and respect are essential when engaging in productive academic discourse. All communications for this course should be conducted constructively, civilly, and respectfully. Differences in beliefs, opinions, and approaches are to be expected. Please bring any communications you believe to be in violation of this policy to my attention. Active interaction with peers and your instructor is essential to success in this course, paying particular attention to the following:

- Be respectful of others and their opinions, valuing diversity in perspectives, backgrounds, abilities, and experiences.
- Challenging ideas, phenomena and the scholars that we engage with is integral to critical thinking and the scholarly process. Please articulate your written and verbal communications carefully and thoughtfully, recognizing that a positive atmosphere of healthy discourse is encouraged.

- It is important to do the reading! We will be discussing nuanced and often complicated circumstances. Being a productive member of in-class discussions means doing the reading and being prepared to talk about those assignments and how they relate to lectures and concepts discussed in class.
