Office Hours: Rm 303, 202 Herty Dr. Thurs 11:30 – 1:30, or by appointment. Virtual Office Hours are available at <https://zoom.us/j/3990837355>.

Objectives: This course introduces major theories and empirical research in International Relations, designed specifically for Ph.D. students. By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- trace the historical development of IR scholarship;
- identify and critically assess key theoretical debates;
- recognize significant and emerging issue areas in the field;
- articulate their own research interests within International Relations;
- develop a clear roadmap toward producing a successful job-market paper.

Course Learning Environment: Every student should feel comfortable speaking in this class. We will value the opinions and ideas of our colleagues very highly. As an instructor, I will promote a classroom environment that encompasses differences in culture, background, and experience among individuals and groups.

Grading Policy: Reading Checklist & Class Participation (30%), Week 5 Assignment (15%), Mid-term Essay (20%), Research Proposal (Pre-registration) (35%).

- Reading Checklist & Class Participation (30%): Students must submit a reading checklist each week before class (by 9:00 a.m. on Thursdays). The checklist (maximum five pages) should address:
 - What is the research question, and why is it important?
 - What answer do the authors propose?
 - How do the authors test their argument?
 - How convincing is the answer and the test? Specifically:
 - * Do the authors consider alternative explanations?
 - * If so, how are these addressed in the empirical analysis?

In addition to the checklist, students are expected to participate actively in class discussions, including:

- Comparing and contrasting the readings: How are they similar or different?
- Proposing new analysis: How would you redesign the study?
- Identifying new research questions inspired by the readings.

While grading is primarily based on the checklist, the instructor will monitor alignment between submitted checklists and in-class participation. If significant discrepancies arise – whether due to insufficient effort or external factors (e.g., over-reliance on AI tools) – the instructor will first provide feedback and guidance. Continued misalignment may result in a grade reduction.

- Week 5 Assignment (15%): Due by midnight on September 11 (maximum five pages). The assignment consists of:
 - Identification and Summary (7%): From your own perspective, identify three significant works relevant to IR theory that are not on the syllabus. Summarize each work and explain its (ir)relevance to syllabus readings, noting tensions, extensions, or unique contributions.
 - Critical Evaluation (8%): Justify why each work is important, outlining its theoretical and/or empirical contributions. Discuss whether it is considered a classic and how subsequent scholarship has built on it, or, if recent, why it is regarded as pioneering.
- Mid-term Essay (20%): Due before the Week 9 class (October 9, 3:55 p.m., maximum twelve pages). The essay should address:
 1. What are the key theoretical debates from the first half of the course, and why are they important for understanding IR? Are they still relevant today?
 2. How have the analytical tools introduced in the course been applied to explain IR? Use a specific international event or phenomenon to illustrate different analytical perspectives.
 3. How do scholars explain the causes and dynamics of interstate and intrastate wars? Are theories unique to each conflict type or applicable across both? Why?
 4. What is a major empirical challenge in assessing the effects of international institutions and organizations? Provide an example, explain the issue, and discuss scholarly approaches to addressing it.
- Research Proposal (Pre-registration Style) (35%): Due by midnight on December 4 (maximum twenty pages). The proposal follows the OSF pre-registration format (<https://osf.io/jsznk>) and include:
 - Title and Research Question (5%)
 - State of Research & Motivation (10%):
 - * Review only literature directly related to your explanatory and/or outcome variables.
 - * Identify what existing research has addressed and what remains unexplored.
 - * Justify why your research fills a gap.
 - Hypotheses Generation (10%):
 - * Provide theoretical reasoning for the relationship between explanatory and outcome variables.

- * Offer at least one real-world example illustrating this relationship.
- Research Design (20%):
 - * Identify relevant existing data and assess whether new data collection is necessary.
 - * Define key explanatory and outcome variables.
 - * For new data collection:
 - Specify collection methods (survey, experiment, archival research, online sources).
 - Detail sampling strategy and measurement of key variables.
 - Discuss anticipated benefits and challenges.
 - * For existing data:
 - Specify spatial and temporal coverage.
 - Define the unit of analysis and scope.
 - Assess strengths and limitations of using existing data.
- Every assignment should be written in Times New Roman, 12 point, with American Political Science Review (APSR) citation style. See <https://apsanet.org/publications/journals/american-political-science-review/apsr-manuscript-preparation-guidelines/>.
- The overall class grade will be calculated on the following scale:
 - $A \geq 94$
 - $A- \geq 90$ and $< A$
 - $B+ \geq 87$ and $< A-$
 - $B \geq 84$ and $< B+$
 - $B- \geq 80$ and $< B$
 - $C+ \geq 77$ and $< B-$
 - $C \geq 74$ and $< C+$
 - $C- \geq 70$ and $< C$
 - $D \geq 60$ and $< C-$
 - $F < D$

Grading Disputes: If a student wishes to dispute a graded assignment, the student can send the instructor a one-page memo within one week of receiving the graded assignment. The memo should respond to the feedback on the assignment from the instructor. The instructor will carefully review the assignment and its grade, given that the memo provides a reason to do so. After regrading, students must accept the reviewed grade, even if the grade is lower than the original assignment.

Late Work Policy: Late work is defined as submitting the assignments after the established deadline. Work submitted by a student as makeup work for an excused absence is not considered late work and is exempted from the late work policy.

- I only accept the late work that is submitted within 24 hours after the deadline with a 10% grade deduction.

Attendance Policy: Students are expected to attend class and to complete all assignments. To be considered for an excused absence, the student must notify the instructor in writing (e-mail is acceptable) prior to the day of absence. In cases where advanced notification is not possible, students must provide notification by the end of the second business day after the last date of the absence. This notification must include an explanation of why the notice could not be sent.

2. University Policies

The following class policy statements are provided by the Center for Teaching and Learning, University of Georgia, and revised by the instructor as deemed appropriate.

Academic honesty: Please see the UGA Honor Code: “I will be academically honest in all of my academic work and will not tolerate academic dishonesty of others.” A Culture of Honesty, the University’s policy and procedures for handling cases of suspected dishonesty, can be found at www.uga.edu/ovpi.

I expect the students to be fully aware of and follow the Student Honor Code. When in doubt, please always ask me in advance.

In addition, unless explicitly stated, artificial intelligence-based technologies, such as ChatGPT, must not be used to generate responses for student assignments. The use of such programs for any course assignments, including your exams, reports, essays, and in-class participations, is not allowed in this course and could result in failing this class and other undesirable outcomes.

Disclaimer: The course syllabus is a general plan for the course; deviations announced to the class by the instructor may be necessary.

Accommodations due to disability: If you plan to request accommodations for a disability, please register with the Disability Resource Center. They can be reached by visiting Clark Howell Hall, calling 706-542-8719 (voice) or 706-542-8778 (TTY), or by visiting <http://drc.uga.edu>. See https://drc.uga.edu/content_page/sample-access-statements for additional examples.

Mental Health and Wellness Resources:

- If you or someone you know needs assistance, you are encouraged to contact Student Care and Outreach in the Division of Student Affairs at 706-542-7774 or visit <https://sco.uga.edu/>. They will help you navigate any difficult circumstances you may be facing by connecting you with the appropriate resources or services.
- UGA has several resources for a student seeking mental health services (<https://www.uhs.uga.edu/bewelluga/bewelluga>) or crisis support (<https://www.uhs.uga.edu/info/emergencies>).
- If you need help managing stress anxiety, relationships, etc., please visit BeWellUGA (<https://www.uhs.uga.edu/bewelluga/bewelluga>) for a list of FREE workshops, classes, mentoring, and health coaching led by licensed clinicians and health educators in the University Health Center.
- Additional resources can be accessed through the UGA App.

FERPA Notice: FERPA Notice (e.g., The Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)) grants students certain information privacy rights. See the registrar’s explanation at <https://reg.uga.edu/general-information/ferpa>. FERPA allows disclosure of directory information (name, address, telephone, email, date of birth, place of birth, major, activities, degrees, awards, prior schools), unless requested in a written letter to the registrar.)
