

The Associated Press
Advancing the Power of Facts

GOT PLANS ELECTION NIGHT?

The Associated Press will be hiring hundreds of students from campuses nationwide to work as remote Vote Entry Operators on Election Night.

Vote Entry Operators support the AP's live election results by taking reports from our stringers in the field, by inputting results from official election websites, and by entering reports received directly from election officials.

How to apply:

Simply scan the QR code below or enter this URL: <https://forms.office.com/r/sZRJfhhb2U> or send an email to the address below. Provide your contact info: name, cell phone number, college email address, alternate email address, college name and state, with optional resume to the AP Elections Recruiters at:

VEOpool@AP.org

AP supports all aspects of diversity and provides equal employment opportunity to all employees and applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status, genetic information, national origin, protected veteran status or disability status. We encourage members of traditionally underrepresented communities to apply.

AP Elections

2026 elections

Apart from the obvious commitment to work election night, Nov. 3, contractors are required to attend a virtual orientation, virtual training, and a mock election virtual event. Starting VEOs are compensated at the national flat-rate of $17/hour. VEOs are expected to provide their own reliable computer with a strong internet connection that can handle telephone calls.

Integrity, accuracy, and a sense of urgency are involved as the work of the AP's Vote Entry Center is vital to bringing timely and accurate information on election outcomes at the very core of our democracy.

Take the next step and fill out the form found here...

